MCS Board finalizes pay increases

BY BOB DEMAREE

Pay increases are coming for all Madison Consolidated Schools employees after the school board approved contracts for teachers and staff at Wednesday's board meeting. A pay increase for administrators will likely come before the board at its December meeting.

"I'm proud to be here," said Superintendent Jeffrey Studebaker. "The work we have been doing has been outstanding across the board. We have outstanding people in this district top to bottom."

One week ago, terms were announced for the collective bargaining agreement with the Madison Teachers Association in a public hearing in which the average base teacher pay will increase 6.3% along with the school corporation covering a 2% increase in health insurance costs for the district. The collective bargaining agreement was officially approved at Wednesday's board meeting.

"I'm proud of this package," said Studebaker. "It was hard to go through some of the conversations because of how we needed to approach getting compression solved" with the imbalance in pay for new teachers and longer serving teachers. "This is an historic package. We've not ever given this kind of a raise out before, so it's great for the district. It's moving us forward."

Studebaker said he is hopeful the school corporation "can do another nice increase next year."

Veterans Day events held

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A memorial at the Indiana Veterans Cemetery, a parade at Pope John Elementary and a dinner at Madison's Brown Gym were just a few of the ways the community showed its appreciation to the hundreds of local veterans on Veterans Day. The City of Madison Parks Department, in partnership with the Samuel Woodfill American Legion Post 9, VFW Post 1969, Jefferson County Veterans Council and RSVP Jefferson County, held a special Veterans Day event on Thursday night at the Brown Gym to celebrate and honor Jefferson County's veterans.

The event included a free meal and music, along with a special program that included thankful and inspiring words from local and state officials.

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney summed up Thursday program by noting: "Jefferson County has always answered the call to defend our country and is home to over 2,000 veterans today. The flag symbolizes what this country stands for, and the freedom we live and die for. It inspires us, and for some, it divides us, but it is an honor to be among the men and women and their families who have served our country."

COVID-19 cases extend shutdown

BY BOB DEMAREE

Rykers' Ridge Elementary School was closed to in-person instruction Tuesday due to COVID-19 with students now not scheduled to return to classes until after the Thanksgiving break.

Madison Consolidated Schools Superintendent Dr. Jeffrey Studebaker said the issue at Rykers' Ridge began in the middle of last week when some children in a Kindergarten class tested positive for COVID-19, and the following day positive cases showed up among students in a fourth grade class.

"We were hoping there would not be spread, but we did see some spread" and by the end of the week both of those classes became virtual.

Studebaker said they

Jefferson death toll now 102

BY THE COURIER STAFF

The Indiana Department of Heath reported two new deaths locally, bringing the Jefferson County's COVID-19 death toll to 102 on Friday.

Jefferson County, which is still in the "Orange" metric for medium to high spread, has an 8.7% positivity rate. The total number of positive cases in Jefferson County is now 5,349 throughout the pandemic, an increase of 62 since Wednesday

Jefferson County Council moves forward with storage proposal

BY BOB DEMAREE

What began as a discussion on a facility to store pandemic supplies, has evolved into a plan to provide much needed storage for the Jefferson County Health Department with Jefferson County Council on Tuesday agreeing to move forward with the proposal.

The building, intended as a cost-effective means to provide county storage rather than rent space at the Jefferson County 4-H Fairgrounds, has been proposed for property adjacent to the county's health department at 715 Green Road. However, concerns have recently surfaced on whether that property is zoned properly for a storage building.

Troy Morgan, director of the Jefferson County's Emergency Management Agency, presented an additional possibility that the building could possibly become a regional storage center in which other counties would contribute to the cost in order to share a secure, safe place for their storage needs.

Morgan said that discussion — at a District 9 Indiana Department of Homeland Security meeting with other EMA directors — was only preliminary but that other counties are seeking solutions for storing their inventories as well. "There's nothing formal and no one has made any request at all," Morgan noted, but the discussion hinged on other counties contributing toward cost of the facility in order to share the facility.

"How realistic do you think that is, that another county is going to come in and inject money into a building that's on another county's property?" Council President Pam Crozier asked.

BOARD

"I think we're headed in the right direction," Board President Jodi Yancey said. "Hopefully we can continue to do something similar or better every year down the road" and continue to show support for the employees of Madison Consolidated Schools.

Additionally, pay increases were approved for non-certified employees, academic interventionists and certified preschool teachers. Studebaker noted these employees include transportation, custodian, maintenance, cafeteria workers, and non-certified and certified preschool teachers.

Studebaker said, with the exception of administration, "basically everybody in the district has received their raise, and it will all be retroactive" for all employees except for transportation in which increases will begin Jan. 1. For non-teaching staff, Studebaker said, "There were certain pockets of groups that were really hard to fill this year, so we had to adjust on the fly, so you will see different percentages of increases because we were trying to get everybody caught up."

Studebaker said at the December meeting, board members will be asked to vote on pay increases for administrators, along with a new statement of benefits.

"This is a great package, this is an historic package in the terms of what we are offering to the employees of the district," Studebaker said. "It's really good day for the employees of Madison schools."

Studebaker said he expects the pay increases will help provide stability in the school corporation. He said the prospect of teachers leaving Madison for other school districts "has been going on forever, but especially since 2011" when the state legislature made changes that increased the competition. "The only way for a teacher to get a huge raise is to go somewhere else, except for this year at Madison."

Money for increasing teacher pay was made available when state revenues exceeded projections in the final days of the last legislative session and budget officials directed most of that windfall toward schools. That money then trickled down to the school districts where most are using it toward increasing teacher pay.

Studebaker noted the increase in funding from the state provided a portion of the pay increases along with other revenue streams such as the state average daily attendance allowance.

"We also had an increase in our student population, so that helped quite a bit as well," he said of the 50-student increase over 2020-21. Madison has 2,563 studnets enrolled for this school year.

In other business:

• Studebaker announced the school corporation has a new contract with Royer Corporation in which Cub Manufacturing will produce a line item. He said Royer has "donated a huge piece of equipment" that will allow Cub Manufacturing to generate a revenue stream that has been a longtime goal. "We're finally there. It's a huge deal."

• Studebaker reported on going to Washington D.C. with Deputy Elementary School Principal Janet McCreary and fourth grade teacher Kristi Fulton to accept Deputy's award as a 2021 National Blue Ribbon School. "Thank you to Deputy Elementary School for everything they have done and they continue to do," he said. "It was humbling to see 325 schools from across the country being honored for work that we do. It was truly a remarkable event."

• Studebaker said work is nearly complete for the high school's new weight room, noting "it's going to be a great facility." Also, he said the lockerroom at the track is also expected to be completed in the next few weeks. Meanwhile, work will soon begin on the new addition at Anderson Elementary School.

• Approved the hiring of Sherri Moore as a CARES team social worker, effective Dec. 6, at Madison Junior High School and Donald Collings as an ELA/Social Studies teacher at E.O. Muncie Junior/Senior High School, effective Nov. 11. Retirements, effective May 27, were approved for Cindy Robinson, a teacher at Anderson Elementary; Kerri Mock Bedingham and Mark Stewart, both science teachers at Madison Junior High; and Maria Stewart, a science teacher at Madison Consolidated High School.

• Approved a transportation joint agreement to the Indiana School of the Blind and the Indiana School of the Deaf for the 2021-2022 school year, along with an agreement for Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) services. Additionally, with a school Speech Language Pathologist (SLP) soon going on maternity leave and a shortage of SLPs in the school district, an agreement was approved with Vocovision for virtual speech therapy services for a non-public in which MCS is responsible for entering into the contract.

SHUTDOWN

thought the situation was under control among students in the remainder of the school on Monday of this week, but on Tuesday they began having more students test positive.

"With an abundance of caution we decided to just give the building some time to breathe and get everybody squared away," he said.

Originally, the school was to return to the classroom on Tuesday, but after seeing seven new cases on Friday the decision was made to stay out until after Thanksgiving and reopen Monday, Nov. 29. Studebaker said the extended shutdown was advised by the Jefferson County Health Department.

Studebaker noted the break provides time "to get some staff members back, too, who had contracted it as well." He noted one of the "aggravating" developments is that the Rykers' Ridge staff members who contracted COVID-19 were breakthrough cases among people who all had been vaccinated.

Studebaker also said one Rykers' Ridge student is sick enough with COVID-19 to need hospitalization.

"It's serious. Now is not the time to back up and give in to the weariness that we all feel, the frustration that we all feel with this," he said. "Now is the time to stick to it, keep moving forward. I am strongly encouraging folks to get vaccinated."

Studebaker is hopeful that now that children ages 5-11 can be vaccinated that will help dissipate future spread of COVID-19 in the school corporation's elementary schools.

"Hopefully, it's a very good sign," he said. "I know the very first day that it was available that the health department was taking walk-ins, and then they were going to start scheduling." He said once scheduling began he wasn't able to schedule an appointment for his own daughter until Nov. 16. "Hopefully that's a sign that a lot of kids are getting vaccinated."

Studebaker said plans are being made to hold vaccination clinics at MCS elementary schools once the Jefferson County Health Department is able to schedule them.

"I am going to urge everybody to be patient and to persevere for where we're headed with COVID," he said at Wednesday's school board meeting. "The tendency since this thing started is that we see a spike in cases and clamp down and we mask up. We do the things that we know can control it, we get ahead of it, the numbers drop, we let up our guard, and all of a sudden we're back in the same stinking spot."

Studebaker said the overall number of COVID-19 cases in Madison Consolidated Schools are decreasing, which he said is also a reflection of what's happening in Jefferson County where the coronavirus is also decreasing even though the county remains in the "Orange" metric for medium to high spread.

Studebaker said Madison Consolidated Schools will continue to implement a mask requirement.

"Until the state's health department and the Governor say it's OK to not mask, and they're not going to force quarantining, we have to remain masked. We just have to. It's the right thing to do," he said.

When the policy changed from having to quarantine due to any close contact to a policy in which wearing a mask could prevent quarantine, Studebaker said it made it possible for more students to continue in-person education.

"At the time they made the announcement, we had 150 to 200 kids out on close contact quarantine," he noted. "We had them all back the very next day.

with the state now including reinfection cases.

Switzerland County is now in the "Yellow" metric for medium" spread and the death toll there remains at 12 with nine new positive cases since Wednesday and a 5.6% positivity rate.

Across the Ohio River, Trimble and Carroll counties are both now in the "Red" metric high spread while their death totals remain the same with Trimble at 17 and Carroll with 28. Trimble has a 10.59% positivity rate with seven new cases of COVID-19 since Wednesday and an overall total of 1,272. Carroll has an 8.93% positivity rate with eight new positive cases and an overall total of 1,956.

COUNCIL

Morgan said he did not have that answer but that interest was expressed at the meeting with the other EMA directors.

Crozier outlined a course of action moving forward — the first step being to look into the zoning issue to determine if the building can be located next to the health department and how that might impact how they move forward. After that, the county can gauge how interested other counties are in supporting and sharing the storage building and what type of participation they would want.

"Once we know that, if they're interested, then we're going to have to increase square footage ... and go back and get new plans," she said.

Health Department Administrator Tammy Monroe said JCHD is "in dire need of storage. We need it so bad," and would welcome more storage in whatever way it can be achieved.

At the October meeting of County Council, Monroe said the health department will receive a $220,000 grant related to COVID-19and she hoped that a portion of that money could go toward renovating the health department to better utilize space in the building. However, on Tuesday, she said that funding cannot be used for major construction or renovation but there is approximately $156,687 in the general fund from administration fees that could go toward renovation of the health department building.

"I am going to need something done," Monroe said, noting there is wasted space in the building that needs to be better utilized for the staff and storage.

Monroe is moving forward on using the $220,000 grant money toward hiring a nurse and a clerical person, which she said the staff very much needs. She began advertising for those positions this week. Funding for the new staff positions would end at the completion of the two-year grant.

In other business, the Council:

• Discussed with Sheriff Dave Thomas the process of preparing the Council for additional expenses involved in operating the new Jefferson County Sheriff's Office and Criminal Justice Center due to be completed in 2023. Thomas said he's already surveying what manpower might be needed, but Crozier said an "all encompassing" evaluation needs to be done that also considers projected costs for power, water and other operational expenses. "As it gets closer, we need to look more at that to know what that might be, so we know what we are coming to," she said.

• Council member Heather Foy reported on a court services cost savings in which the public defender board approved a resolution changing the public defender administrator's position to a chief public defender position. She said the comprehensive plan for the changes provided a reimbursement increase of $68,000 for keeping public defenders in compliance. Additionally, she said because of efficiency in appointing cases, a full-time public defender will become part-time, resulting in a $36,000 savings.

• Approved a request from Superior Court Judge Blaine Goode for an $8,000 appropriation for additional costs associated with psychiatric evaluations for insanity and incompetency pleas filed by defense attorneys.

An additional appropriation for $55,000 was approved for ductwork cleaning and repairs in the Courthouse that hasn't been done for more than a decade. Also, $2,500 was approved for cemetery maintenance which Crozier said "is much needed. Some of them are in very poor condition. We do need to take care of them. It is our responsibility for the upkeep."

There was also approval of $8,200 for American Disabilities Act compliance and $16,000 for Central Square, which is a communication tool utilized between the Sheriff's Department and 911.

• Several transfers were considered and approved. One involved taking $5,600 from the rainy day fund to pay for concrete slabs for placing kennels outdoors at the Jefferson County Animal Shelter. Transfers also were made in categories for the animal shelter funds that amounted to $9,400 in balancing out claims.

A transfer from county general of $46,000 moved $38,000 into trash truck and $8,000 into pauper billable services. County Auditor Heather Huff noted the trash truck expense was to cover costs early in the transition of the county taking over the trash service from Rumpke when they had to reach out to Rumpke to come back for a short time, along with initial costs of taking trash to another location prior to making a lower cost arrangement with the City of Madison transfer station. "We had to run with Rumpke longer than we anticipated, and that's very expensive, so that's what hurt us," said Commissioner Bobby Little.

A transfer in cumulative capital development of $23,000 was moved from equipment purchases to computer maintenance which Huff said could be partially attributed as necessary extra costs associated with not having an information technology person on staff.

Other transfers include Circuit Court that moved $3,300 to psychiatric services and $1,000 to office supplies; Superior Court that moved $2,000 to pauper attorney billable; and Prosecutor that moved $180 to professional fees.

• Approved a schedule for 2022 that continues having Council meetings on the second Tuesday of each month with the exception of July and November when the meeting is moved to the third Tuesday. In July, the meeting is moved so that it does not conflict with the Jefferson County 4-H Fair, which will be July 8-15. In November, the meeting is moved so it does not fall on the same day as the general election, which will be Nov. 8.

OBITUARIES

Robert Snodgrass

Dr. Robert E. Snodgrass, 91, of Greenwood, Indiana and formerly of Madison, Indiana, died Wednesday, Nov. 10, 2021, at the Greenwood Village South retirement home in Greenwood.

He was born in Indianapolis on Feb. 27, 1930, and grew up on the west side of Indianapolis. He graduated from Washington High School in 1948 and enrolled at Indiana University. In 1952 he received a bachelor of arts degree in anatomy and physiology and a Doctor of Medicine degree in 1955. He served an internship at the former Marion County General Hospital and then entered the US Army as a captain in the Medical Corps. He spent two years in Taiwan assigned as a member of the Military Assistance Group to the Republic of Free China. Upon discharge from the Army, he was awarded the Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service. He married Constance Fusco on March 1, 1958, while still in Taiwan, and they moved to Greenwood that year where he practiced general medicine and obstetrics for six years. He delivered many babies at the Johnson County Hospital. In 1967, he completed a three-year residency in psychiatry, his favorite specialty, at IUMC in Indianapolis.
He had a private practice in psychiatry on the southside of Indianapolis for many years, was board certified in psychiatry by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and served for nearly 25 years as a volunteer assistant professor in the Department of Psychiatry at IUMC. Over the years he served as president of the Indiana Psychiatric Society, chairman of the psychiatry departments at Methodist Hospital, St. Francis Hospital and Valle Vista Psychiatric Hospital, which he founded in Greenwood. He left Indianapolis in 1990 and was employed for 10 years as staff psychiatrist at Madison State Hospital in Madison, where he and his wife owned a historic 1848 home. He then became manager of an out-patient mental health center in Madison for a number of years.
He retired to Greenwood Village South but continued to hold an active license to practice medicine issued by the State of Indiana. He enjoyed traveling, history, opera, Italy and foreign language study — Spanish and Italian — and was the author of "Beloved Madison, A Pictorial Tour of Indiana's Historic Madison."

Survivors include his children, Constance Thomas and Bob Snodgrass; his grandchildren, Larry Thomas and Stephanie Thomas; and three great grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents and his wife on Nov. 18, 2006.

Cremation was chosen with arrangements by Wilson St. Pierre Funeral Service and Crematory in Greenwood. Online condolences www.wilsonstpierre.tributes.com/obituary/read/Robert-E.-Snodgrass-108530740.

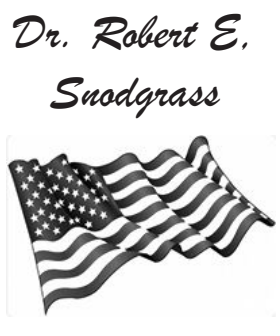
Dr. Robert E. Snodgrass



Robert E. Snodgrass, 91, of Greenwood, IN passed away Wednesday, November 10, 2021.
He was born at home in Indianapolis on February 27, 1930, and grew up on the west side of Indianapolis. After graduating from Washington High School in 1948, he enrolled at Indiana University. In 1952 he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Anatomy and Physiology and a Doctor of Medicine degree in 1955. He then served an internship at the old Marion County General Hospital. He then entered the U.S. Army as a captain in the Medical Corps. He spent two years in Taiwan assigned as a member of the unique Military Assistance Group to the Republic of Free China. He enjoyed this important assignment very much. On discharge from the Army, he was awarded the Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service.
He and his wife, Constance, a registered psychiatric nurse, were married in Taiwan in 1958. They then moved in 1958 to Greenwood, Indiana, where he practiced general medicine and obstetrics for six years. He is proud to have delivered many babies at the Johnson County Hospital. In 1967, he completed a three-year residency in psychiatry, his favorite specialty, at IUMC in Indianapolis.
Dr. Snodgrass had a private practice in psychiatry on the southside of Indianapolis for many years. He was board certified in psychiatry by the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology. He served for nearly 25 years as a volunteer assistant professor in the Department of Psychiatry at IUMC. Over the years he served as President of the Indiana Psychiatric Society, chairman of the psychiatry departments at Methodist, St. Francis Hospital and Valle Vista Psychiatric Hospital, which he founded in Greenwood. He left Indianapolis in 1990 and was then employed for ten years as staff psychiatrist at the Madison State Hospital in Madison, where he and his wife owned a historic home built in 1848. He then became manager of an out-patient mental health center in Madison for a number of years.
He enjoyed retirement very much living at Greenwood Village South. Although he was retired, he continued to hold an active license to practice medicine issued by the State of Indiana. He enjoyed traveling, history, opera, Italy and foreign language study (now Spanish and Italian.) Dr. Snodgrass was the author of Beloved Madison, A Pictorial Tour of Indiana's Historic Madison, which contains over 400 colored photos. His message: "If you should have an unresolved problem or condition, please don't ever give up hope. Believe me, help might be coming just around the corner when you are not expecting it. And don't ever be afraid or embarrassed to continue to seek help."
Survivors include his children: Constance Thomas and Bob (Brenda Ford) Snodgrass; grandchildren: Larry (Amy) Thomas and Stephanie Thomas; great-grandchildren: Samantha (Matthew) Thomas-Vest, Anna Thomas and Audrey Thomas. He was preceded in death by his parents and his wife Constance.

(Step) father of the bride

Dear Annie: My fiance and I are well underway in planning our wedding with less than two months to go.

During our planning process, my mom got engaged to a wonderful man. They had been living together for several years, and I never lived with them, nor have I spent more than holidays and a few social gatherings at their home.

I have known of this man from my past and know he treats my mom incredibly well. I am absolutely delighted for her. However, I don't have much of a relationship with him.

In the wedding plans, I informed my mom I would like her to walk me down the aisle as well as my current boss. This boss has been a father figure to me for nine years. He has helped me financially and emotionally, and we spend time working together nearly every day. He even refers to me as his daughter to everyone, and I call him my dad.

When I told my mom my wedding plans, she became upset about how it would bother her fiance. She claims he cares for me more than I know.

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

A week ago, she gifted me the remaining money I needed for my wedding, about a third of the total cost. The card was signed by her and her fiance's name in her writing. She has been trying to volunteer her fiance for anything possible for the wedding, such as readings, being an usher or even giving a speech.

While I am not opposed to him having a role — and I have told her this — I feel like she is trying to force a relationship on me with her fiance. I haven't even had time to speak to him because we both work seven days a week right now, and he works nights while I work days.

I politely asked my mom to back off a bit and said that he and I will have to build a relationship on our own, but she keeps having ideas on how to involve him. None of these ideas came up before I told her about my boss walking me down the aisle.

I feel guilty about something that originally made me happy and felt perfect. Now I feel like I'm going to cause a rift in my mom's life. What's a bride to do? — Knot My Mother's Wedding

Dear Knot My: Let your mom know that as much as you appreciate her good intentions, ultimately, all wedding decisions will be up to you and your groom.

Your wedding day should be focused entirely on you and your soon-to-be-husband, celebrating the love you have for one another and merging your two families into one. Don't assign your mom's fiance a wedding role that he hasn't truly fulfilled in real life if it doesn't feel right. It's your day, and just by going, he will be part of it and these memories forever.

You have a lifetime to build a strong, loving relationship with your mom's fiance, but for it to be meaningful, it can't be forced.

When you talk to your mom, make sure to address the elephant in the room: the check. If it was given with strings attached and expectations in mind, let her and her fiance know you cannot accept it.

Bonding with my husband's ex-wife

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I see so many columns where parents don't get the result they want from their children. I lucked out with the help of my clever pediatrician, whose advice was to give kids more control over their lives while teaching responsibility.

When my son was about 7, he did NOT want to go to bed or get up in the morning. So, we went and picked out his own alarm clock. I wanted him to go to bed at 8 p.m., so first I asked him if he thought he should go to bed at 7 or 7:30. "Oh, 8:00," he said. "OK." So then I asked, "What time do you think you should take your shower?"

Needless to say, the next night at his chosen time, he stood up and said like a big man, "Well, I gotta go take my shower and then go to bed." The next morning, he got up when his alarm clock rang! Peace! — Happy Mommy

Dear Happy Mommy: Thank you for sharing the wonderful advice of your very wise pediatrician. I have no doubt you will help countless parents out there with this simple yet effective way of parenting.

Dear Annie: In this "COVID age," why is it still acceptable to blow one's nose in public?

Every time I take my family to a restaurant, it seems that someone pulls out a nasty handkerchief and blasts away. Is there a better way to spread germs than this? Why can't there be a policy to encourage people to go to the restroom to blow their nose?

It's not only disgusting for people in the middle of a meal, but it is also totally unsanitary. — Disgusted in Ohio

Dear Disgusted: I'm disgusted just reading your letter. You are correct that people should blow their noses in the bathroom or in private — NOT in a public restaurant.

Dear Annie: Forty-two years ago, my then-boyfriend and I decided to move in together in the house he was building. We were married three years later. He was a single father of two boys, and I had one daughter from my previous marriage. My boyfriend's former wife had visitation rights with their boys, and she saw them often. Since I never had any reason to dislike or mistrust her, I decided she and I should try to be friends so the kids wouldn't have added stress in their lives. She agreed.

We are so thankful for our friendship! One of the sons was diagnosed with a rare liver cancer at age 23. His mom and I worked together to take care of his needs. Sadly, he passed, and we all provided support for one another.

A year after that, my daughter and her family lost their home in a fire. We also had my elderly mother-in-law living with us. So, my daughter and her family moved in with us at the same time. With Thanksgiving approaching, things were not looking very festive. My stepson's mother invited our entire family to her house for Thanksgiving. What a gesture of love and friendship!

We have remained very close friends since then and see each other often. We are all very thankful for the peace our friendship has brought to the family. — Thankful in New England

Dear Thankful in New England: Thank you so much for your heartwarming letter. Your decision to bond with your husband's ex-wife is admirable, and it has paid enormous dividends for everyone in the family. Kudos to both of you.

Madison firefighters responded to an alarm at Madison Consolidated High School's Opal Sherman Auditorium shortly before 6:30 a.m. Friday when smoke was detected in the theatre department. No fire was found but smoke was detected at an electric blower. The blower was taken offline until repairs can be made and firefighters cleared the scene by 7:19 a.m. The theatre department had staged opening night of "Shakespeare in Love" Thursday and was scheduled to have performances Friday through Sunday. MCS spokesperson Ashley Schutte said those shows will go on as planned. "We were given the all-clear, classes began on time and the production is on schedule!"

Should I Invest in an Annuity or a Bank CD?

"Both offer guarantees, but the interest rate earned can be another story." Steve Dybwad

Layin It On The Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

Questions to ask yourself before choosing a Bank CD or annuity.

Aside from the near-zero interest rates thanks to the Federal Reserve, people who save in traditional vehicles such as CDs and savings accounts face increased fees and potential institutional insolvency. When the economy shows signs of faltering, the Federal Reserve typically cuts interest rates. While this can be okay, it punishes those with large cash reserves parked in CDs or savings accounts, often causing them to take more risks with their money than they usually would. Despite historically low-interest rates, banks continue to tighten lending standards and aggressively avoid risk, making it more difficult for small businesses and individuals to borrow money.

In a shaky economy, safety rules.

When there is economic uncertainty, most people crave safety, especially if they can retire in a few years. Although they are well aware of the erosive effects of inflation on their wealth, many retirees are afraid of losing money they don't have time to replace. That's why those near retirement often seek to transfer their more vulnerable assets to safer vehicles, such as annuity products or bank Certificates of Deposit (CDs).

Should you choose an annuity or CD?

Suppose you are someone with cash reserves withering away in a low-to-zero interest account and want to find ways to make that money work harder and smarter for you. On the one hand, it's hard to resist the siren song of higher returns in the market. But, on the other hand, when you are within a few years of retirement, the thought of losing even a penny of your nest egg is nearly intolerable.

After exploring their goals and risk tolerance, many pre-retirees choose to balance their portfolios with "safe money" products, such as annuities or Bank CDs. While CDs are a traditional safe money choice, annuity products offer some additional advantages. In deciding whether to place money in an annuity or a CD, you should ask yourself:

Is it essential the government backs my investment?

Do I want a stream of guaranteed, predictable income?

For how long do I want my money invested in a product?

What will I do with the money once I have it saved?

How critical is portfolio diversity to me?

What are my long-term and short-term money goals?

Am I looking to create a legacy?

Is it necessary for me to have a product I can customize to meet my needs?

Is liquidity a vital concern?

Would I like to use this product to plan for long-term care needs?

Am I looking for a short-term or a long-term solution?

Do I understand all the pros and cons of both annuities and CDs?

Will the annuity companies be able to pay my claim when the time comes?

The takeaway: When economies falter, safety becomes of paramount importance, especially for those near retirement or who have already left the workforce. Both annuities and bank CDs offer wealth protection. However, for those with specific goals, annuities may fit better with their long-term financial objectives.

When considering these choices, it's wise to meet with a qualified planner who has particular knowledge about annuity products and the retirement phase of life.

Shawe girls regroup after rough start to beat Providence, 34-28

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Shawe Memorial managed just four points and turned the ball over 15 times over the first 13 minutes of Thursday's girls basketball game with Providence.

Facing a blowout loss, the Hilltoppers then regrouped to pull out a rare win over the Pioneers at Meny Gym in Madison.

Trailing 16-4 with just under three minutes to play in the second quarter, Shawe's young squad finally settled down and held Providence to just 12 points the rest of the way to post the 34-28 come-from-behind win.

The victory was Shawe's first in 14 tries all-time against its fellow Catholic institution and served as a confidence booster for a very young Hilltopper roster.

"Defensively I thought they played pretty well in the first half and then the second half, I thought the defense really made it hard for them," Shawe coach Terry King said. "We play packline defense and when we get into the gaps, they can't drive the play pack. And they had a hard time getting in the gaps. And in the second half, we got hands up on shots. So I think we won because of our defense."

Shawe had struggled on offense through its first two games of the season and Thursday was no different. Playing faster than against comfortable against Providence's press defense, the Hilltoppers were turning the ball over on nearly every possession.

Lina Leatherman, Shawe's lone senior, hit a short jumper in the first minute of the game and added two free throws midway through the second quarter for the Hilltoppers' lone points over the first 12 minutes. Providence, meanwhile, wasn't exactly on fire offensively but the Pioneers played well enough to build a double-digit lead.

That all changed midway through the second period. Shawe cleaned up its turnovers, began playing better on offense and closed the first half on an 8-0 run to close the gap to 20-12 at halftime. Shawe then held Providence to one field goal in the third quarter while scoring 15 points and took a 24-22 on an Allison Knoebel 3-pointer with 54 seconds left in the third.

Leatherman scored eight of her game-high 12 points in the second half as the Hilltoppers pushed ahead 33-25 with just over two minutes to play. Shawe struggled at the free-throw line, but scored more than enough to hold off Providence which hit only two shots from the floor in the second half.

"Lina makes a big difference," King said. "She'll post up on one side use a little jump up front of basket. She didn't play for us last year and she just makes a big difference being out there."

Knoebel finished with 11 points and eight rebounds while Ava Turner had five points and 10 rebounds.

Shawe faced off against Orleans on Friday in a late addition to the schedule this week. The Hilltoppers next travel to Bloomington Lighthouse on Saturday, Nov. 20.

UPSET ALERT

Revitalized Purdue focused on No. 6 Ohio State

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The handful of current Ohio State upperclassmen who were on the roster then shudder at the memory of the last time the Buckeyes played an evidently overmatched Purdue team.

The 2018 game ended in a shocking 49-20 upset by the unranked Boilermakers, dealing Urban Meyer's previously unbeaten and second-ranked squad its only loss of the season and ultimately keeping it out of the College Football Playoff.

The Buckeyes just buckled.

On Saturday afternoon in Ohio Stadium, they'll face Purdue for the first time since then.

"Everybody knows that was a big loss, an unexpected loss, really," said senior cornerback Sevyn Banks, who was a freshman in 2018.

"We definitely got to get it right," he said.

The 2018 Purdue debacle has been a "talking point" among his teammates this week, said cornerback Marcus Williamson, who was on the 2018 roster but out with a shoulder injury.

The No. 6 Buckeyes (8-1, 6-0, No. 5 CFP) shouldn't be caught by surprise this time, even though they will come in as a three-touchdown favorite, according to FanDuel Sportsbook.

Purdue (6-3, 4-2 Big Ten) has won three of its last four, including a 40-29 upset of previously unbeaten Michigan State last week.

"When we get into a rhythm and are aggressive, we can do some good things," Purdue coach Jeff Brohm said. "I do think we're not afraid of the challenge, and we look forward to tough opponents and seeing how we match up."

Purdue (6-3, 4-2 Big Ten) has won three of its last four, including a 40-29 upset of previously unbeaten Michigan State last week.

The Boilermakers have worked themselves right back into the crowded mix atop the Big Ten West. Purdue, Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota are tied with 4-2 divisional records.

"They're playing for a chance to go to Indy," Ohio State coach Ryan Day said. "They certainly have our attention."

The Buckeyes and quarterback C.J. Stroud managed to survive last-place Nebraska last week, 26-17. Ohio State's nation-leading offense managed only two field goals in the second half, allowing the Cornhuskers — a two-touchdown underdog — to make it a one-score game until Noah Ruggles kicked a 46-yard field goal with 1:29 left. Stroud threw two interceptions.

That was the Buckeyes' 24th straight Big Ten win since the 2018 Purdue setback.

"It doesn't matter how it looks, we just got to win," Day said. "If we keep winning, then a lot of good things are going to happen."

WILSON BACK?

Ohio State star receiver Garrett Wilson was unavailable for last week's game for unspecified reasons. Day said Wilson was practicing this week, which could indicate that he will play on Saturday. Jaxon Smith Njigba stepped up in his absence, making a career-high 15 catches for 240 yards and a touchdown against Nebraska.

MILLER SUSPENDED

Quarterback Jack Miller III remains suspended after being arrested on suspicion of drunken driving last Friday morning. The redshirt freshman was the third-string QB behind Stroud and Kyle McCord. Miller has played in four games in mop-up duty.

BOILERS AS SPOILERS

Purdue has already upset two Top 5 teams this season, upending then-No. 2 Iowa and then knocking off then-No. 5 Michigan State last week. The 2018 win over the Buckeyes was the first time the Boilers took down a team ranked that high since 1984. The victim that time? Then-No. 2 Ohio State. Unranked Purdue teams have beaten a top-five foe 17 times, an FBS record.

MILESTONE MARKERS

Purdue's season is coming with all sorts of milestones. On Tuesday, the Boilermakers made their first appearance in the CFP rankings, at No. 19. A win Saturday would give them their first season with four road wins since 1943.

CLIMBING THE CHARTS

David Bell is having the kind of season most receivers dream about. He's already tied Brian Alford's single-season school record with two 200-yard games, set the school record with 15 100-yard games. He also leads the FBS with 102.4 yards per game.

CAPTAINS LIMITED

Buckeyes defensive tackle Haskell Garrett and linebacker Teradja Mitchell got limited playing time last week, but Day wouldn't be specific about what is keeping the senior team captains on the sideline.

"There's a little bit of everything going on there," Day said.

Hanover men open season with 83-81 win at Wabash

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Hanover shot 51% from the floor and made seven free throws in the final 26 seconds to pull out an 83-81 win at Wabash in the men's basketball season opener on Wednesday.

Hanover led virtually the entire way, including by as many as 13 midway through the second half when Wabash made a late charge. The Little Giants pulled to within three (76-73) with 31 seconds left after a Tyler Watson basket, but the Panthers stayed cool at the free-throw line.

Led by Max Greenamoyer, Hanover hit seven of its eight attempts from the foul stripe over the final 26 seconds to remain in control. Greenamoyer made three shots over that span while Ty Houston and Noah Williams hit two each, with Williams' shots coming with five seconds left to ice the win.

Isaac Hibbard had 16 points, five rebounds and five assists to lead four Panthers in double figures. Greenamoyer had 15 points while Williams and Jack Wininger scored 11 each. Overall, Hanover was 30-for-58 shooting from the floor (51.7%) and 17-for-28 (60.7%) from the line.

Jack Davidson scored 33 points on 10-of-17 shooting from the floor and 12-of-12 from the free-throw line to lead Wabash. Tyler Watson had 18 points and Kellen Schreiber scored 12 points.

Hanover travels to Indiana State on Sunday for an exhibition beginning at 1 p.m. The Panthers then host Spalding next Wednesday in their home opener.

Are Bengals ready to make a playoff run?

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — D.J. Reader knows maturity and resilience matter when it comes to winning games down the stretch in a long, arduous NFL season.

The veteran defensive tackle — like every other Bengals player performing self-analysis during the team's off week — is still trying to figure out how Cincinnati managed to follow a solid 5-2 start with two particularly bad losses.

The more important question is whether this team has developed enough in coach Zac Taylor's third season to be ready for the consistently high level of playmaking required in the second half of the schedule to get to the playoffs — and make an impact.

"I don't know that I would say it's just growing pains and chalk it up to that," Reader said of the inconsistency. "You don't want to be passive and think it's just that. I think it's just more so everyone needs to understand that week to week, you have to bring your lunch pail and you got to be ready for whatever the assignment is, and you have to go out there and play. Week to week, anybody can beat anybody in this league."

Reader said he thinks it's a matter of instilling in younger players the importance of every single practice, every single week, every single game, every single play.

"I think it's very tough for young guys to understand," he said. "Especially coming from college, you might just be beating teams every week and you might just be able to out-athlete those guys every week."

In the NFL, he added, "you have to go out there and earn those wins."

Cincinnati (5-4) has already topped its victory total in each of the first two years of Taylor's tenure. The Bengals have beaten AFC North rivals Pittsburgh (5-3) and Baltimore (6-2), but were smashed by the Cleveland Browns (5-4) 41-16 last week. The division is up for grabs, and the Bengals are in it — a rare situation for a team that has finished last for three straight seasons.

Second-year quarterback Joe Burrow is among the league leaders in touchdown passes with 20, but his 11 interceptions tie him with Carolina's Sam Darnold for most in the league. Rookie receiver Ja'Marr Chase has the makings of a superstar but wasn't a factor in the last two losses and has dropped potential touchdown passes. Rookies have been pressed into service on the offensive line with varied results.

Reader and the others have talked up the Bengals' exceptional locker room culture and the fact that even the younger players are holding themselves accountable, looking inward and not pointing fingers when the team stumbles.

"To be honest, it's all about the mentality that we've got up in here," said running back Joe Mixon, one of the team captains. "We know the players that we have, we know the talent that we've got, and sometimes you can get carried away with everything being so big, and you just forget about the little things. And that's kind of what it came down to" in the Browns loss last week.

That debacle came on the heels of a baffling 34-31 loss to the then-1-5 New York Jets.

"Two losses can sometimes feel like 10," Taylor said. "But we've got a mature enough team to handle it right and push us through this little bit of adversity, go on the road (after the break) and get a win and set ourselves back on the direction that felt like we were in a couple weeks ago."

Colts face new challenge against surging Jaguars

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Indianapolis Colts coach Frank Reich sees Jacksonville's progression on tape.

There's Josh Allen emerging as a consistent, menacing defensive playmaker. There's rookie quarterback Trevor Lawrence starting to settle into his new gig and an offense set up for balance.

The result: Jacksonville snapped a 20-game losing streak against Miami and heads to Indianapolis on Sunday with two wins in three games. It's not just Reich noticing the change, either.

"I think they have a really talented, high-energy defensive line and they like to get after it," Colts quarterback Carson Wentz said. "They fly around. They don't do a ton, but they mix it up enough and you can tell their defensive line kind of spearheads what they do."

At first glance, the game looks like it should be a mismatch.

The Colts (4-5) have won three of their last four, had a long weekend after blowing out the New York Jets and can put themselves firmly back in the playoff picture by reaching .500 for the first time this season.

And against a young team with an 0-3 road record and seven straight losses against division foes, the scales appear to be tipped heavily toward Indy.

The Colts know better. In 2020, Indy lost its season opener in Jacksonville — and the Jags didn't win another game.

"Everybody knows we respect this team," Reich said. "We've had good battles with this team in the time that we've been here, so a lot of respect for them coming in."

This time, though, they have a different look with Lawrence, the top overall pick in April's draft, behind center and first-year coach Urban Meyer calling the shots.

Last weekend against Buffalo, the Jags defense gave up only two field goals against the 2020 AFC runner-up and pulled off a 9-6 victory. This week, Meyer knows, will prove every bit as challenging against some key players the coach knows well.

He won all three Big Ten matchups against Colts running back Jonathan Taylor, was on site when Indy receiver Michael Pittman Jr. caught 10 passes for 232 yards at Utah in 2019, and Meyer knows all about Wentz because of a friendship with former Philadelphia Eagles coach Doug Pederson.

So even with momentum and renewed hope, Meyer understands the type of challenge his team faces in taking its next big step.

"You can't just sit in one (scheme), those guys will pick you apart," Meyer said. "Do I like the matchup? I wish we weren't playing Taylor and the other guy (Nyheim Hines). That's strength against strength."

Barton scores 30, Nuggets beat Pacers 101-98 without Jokic

BY DENNIS GEORGATOS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DENVER — Will Barton scored a season-high 30 points, helping to make up for the absence of suspended star Nikola Jokic as the Denver Nuggets hung on to beat the Indiana Pacers 101-98 Wednesday night.

Zeke Nnaji added 19 points and Jeff Green and Bones Hyland had 12 apiece for the Nuggets, who have won four straight and six of seven.

Malcolm Brogdon had 25 points to lead the Pacers. Domantas Sabonis added 20 points and 19 rebounds.

Jokic, the reigning NBA MVP, served a one-game suspension for his retaliatory late-game shove Monday of Markieff Morris following the Miami player's hard foul to Jokic's midsection. Both players were ejected and Morris, who was knocked to the floor, drew a $50,000 fine for his role in the fracas.

Barton said he went into the game with the mindset "to be ultra aggressive."

"I knew I had to be the guy tonight with the big fella down and just try to do anything to get a win," Barton said. "I still felt like we had enough to win, and we proved that tonight."

Nnaji paired with JaMychal Green to replace Jokic, seeing his most significant action of the season. Nnaji also displayed some deft perimeter

Kentucky eager to end 3-game skid with a win vs. Vanderbilt

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A season that started so very well for the Kentucky Wildcats has hit such a skid that coach Mark Stoops isn't taking any team for granted.

Not even Vanderbilt, which has lost 18 straight Southeastern Conference football games.

"No matter who we're playing, it's about us, the situation that we're in, how we react to what happened to us (last week) and the way we played and that will determine the outcome of this week," Stoops said. "Just how we handle it, how we prepare, how we get ready."

Kentucky (6-3, 4-3) started the season with a six-game winning streak and big wins over Florida and LSU in league play.

Now the Wildcats have lost three straight, the last knocking them out of the Top 25 after a 45-42 loss to Tennessee despite dominating almost every offensive category. Kentucky piled up 612 yards for a nice rebound after offensive clunkers at Georgia and Mississippi State.

"I can promise you there's a lot of guys in that building that are just motivated to move on and try to go get the next victory," Stoops said.

Vanderbilt (2-7, 0-5) still is looking for its first SEC win under first-year coach Clark Lea.

The Commodores also are trying to end a skid in league play that is now 18 straight dating back to a win over Missouri on Oct. 19, 2019. They are coming off an open date to rest up from losing four straight, including a 37-28 loss to Missouri on Oct. 30.

Cardano-Hillary leads No. 8 Indiana women past Butler

BY MARK AMBROGI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana coach Teri Moren joked that whatever Nicole Cardano-Hillary was fed before the game should be repeated.

Cardano-Hillary scored 29 points to lead No. 8 Indiana to an 86-63 victory over Butler on Wednesday night. She shot 11 for 12 from the field, including 7 for 8 on 3-pointers.

"I was getting incredible passes from my teammates and getting energy from the bench," Cardano-Hillary said. "After hitting a couple, you can't be mad about that. I've been focusing on those 3s."

Cardano-Hillary added six rebounds and five assists to lead the Hoosiers, who shot 52%.

Grace Berger, who added 18 points on 9-of-15 shooting and topped 1,000 career points, wasn't surprised by Cardano-Hillary's 3-point success.

"Every time she shoots I think it's going in," she said. "I have so much confidence in her."

Mackenzie Holmes had 11 points and eight rebounds for Indiana. Ali Patberg shot 2 for 10 from the field but had 10 assists.

"That's a great lesson for your players," Moren said of Patberg. "Some nights when your shot is not falling, there are other ways you can help the team win."

Moren said if there was a negative offensively the Hoosiers shot too many 3-pointers, making 8 of 26.

"Our defense was very average," Moren said. "We were frustrated. We felt our post players should have done a better job guarding the low block. We gave up too many easy looks at the basket."

Alex Richard scored 20 points on 10-for-13 shooting and Zoe Jackson added 18 points for Butler. The Bulldogs shot 50% but committed 18 turnovers.

"Our two freshmen did what we asked them to do," Butler coach Kurt Godlevske said. "Alex was extremely aggressive and execute. Zoe was a real spark plug off the bench. I love her ability against a very good and experienced IU team to get downhill and make plays. The future is bright and we're excited about that."

Indiana led by 13 late in the first half before Butler pulled to 43-31 at the break. The Hoosiers extended the advantage to 16 points in the third quarter before pulling away in the fourth. Their largest lead was 25.

BIG PICTURE

Indiana: The Hoosiers, who return all five starters from last season's Elite Eight team, got a decent early test to prepare for home game with No. 13 Kentucky on Sunday. Indiana has won the last 10 season openers, this was the first one on the road since 2012.

Butler: The Bulldogs will need to learn the extent of starting guard Genesis Parker's injury. Parker, who needed help to the locker room with a lower leg injury, left the game early in the third quarter after being injured and did not return. Parker, who averaged 12.7 points last season, was scoreless in 14 minutes.

No. 13 Kentucky women rout North Alabama in 2nd half, 98-56

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Dre'Una Edwards scored 27 points and No. 13 Kentucky beat North Alabama 98-56 Thursday night.

Kentucky led 22-14 after the first quarter before the Lions closed to within 32-31 when Reagan Hune hit two free throws with 1:41 before halftime.

Edwards scored 11 of her 17 third quarter points in the first four minutes as Kentucky (2-0) extended its lead to 51-39.

The Wildcats outscored North Alabama 36-20 in the third quarter and finished with a 27-5 romp through the fourth. Kentucky out-rebounded the Lions 50-27.

Rhyne Howard finished with 20 points, 10 rebounds and three blocked shots for Kentucky. Robyn Benton added 14 points, Jada Walker scored 13 and dished five assists and Treasure Hunt grabbed 10 rebounds.

Macey Lee scored 21 points with 10 rebounds for North Alabama (1-1). Patrycja Jaworska scored 10 points with five rebounds and five assists.

shooting, making two of three 3-point shots.

"I was wide open," he said. "Didn't think about it, just shot it. Whenever I'm open, I'm not going to hesitate. I have confidence in my shot. I feel like I work on it a lot, so I'm never going to hesitate to pull the trigger."

The Nuggets took a 69-65 lead into the fourth quarter and the game remained close through the final period. In one sequence, Barton and Brogdon each hit back-to-back 3-pointers as Denver led 85-84 with 6:02 remaining. Just over a minute later, Barton connected on his third 3-pointer in the fourth quarter as the Nuggets moved in front 90-86.

Barton had 11 points in the final period, including a key running bank shot with 27.2 seconds left that bumped Denver's advantage to four.

"Will Barton had a really good night and made a big-time shot," said T.J. McConnell, who finished with 16 points for the Pacers. "It was a two-point game to go up four. We weren't able to make enough plays defensively to get over the hump."

Indiana remained within striking distance until the end. Green broke free for a dunk with 12.6 seconds left but Brogdon put in a running layup and the Pacers immediately fouled Hyland, who made one of two free throws with six seconds left. Jeremy Lamb's long 3-point attempt at the buzzer hit the backboard.

In the Indiana Supreme Court
In the Matter of: Carla J. Ginn, Respondent
Supreme Court Case No. 21S-DI-325
Published Order Approving Statement of Circumstances and Conditional Agreement for Discipline
Pursuant to Indiana Admission and Discipline Rule 23(12.1)(b), the Indiana Supreme Court Disciplinary Commission and Respondent have submitted for approval a "Statement of Circumstances and Conditional Agreement for Discipline" stipulating agreed facts and proposed discipline as summarized below.
Stipulated Facts: At all relevant times, Respondent was dating "Father." In November 2018, Respondent began representing Father in an estate matter. In January 2019, Respondent began representing "Son 1" as second chair in two criminal matters, and by March 2019 she was representing Son 1 in all his pending criminal matters as well as a parenting time matter. In January 2020, Father was arrested after an altercation with Son l and "Son 2," charged with 13 felony counts, and ordered to have no unauthorized contact with Sons 1 and 2. Despite Son 1 being listed as a victim, Respondent filed an appearance on Father's behalf. For the next several months, Respondent continued to represent both Father and Son 1, including at one point attempting to modify a no-contact order to allow Son 1 to work for Father. Respondent withdrew from Son l's representation in July 2020 but did not withdraw from Father's representation until August 2021.
Violations: The parties agree that Respondent violated these Indiana Professional Conduct Rules prohibiting the following misconduct:
1.3: Failing to act with reasonable diligence and promptness.
1.7: Representing a client when the representation involves a concurrent conflict of interest.
1.16(a): Failing to withdraw from representation when the representation will result in violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law.
Discipline: The parties propose the appropriate discipline is a public reprimand. The Court, having considered the submissions of the parties, now approves the agreed discipline and imposes a public reprimand for Respondent's misconduct.
The costs of this proceeding are assessed against Respondent. Pursuant to the parties" stipulation, the Court hereby orders Respondent to pay $270.96 by check made payable to the Clerk of the Indiana Supreme Court and transmitted to the Roll of Attorneys Administrator in the Office of the Clerk of the Indiana Supreme Court. Upon receipt, the Clerk is directed to disburse those funds as follows: (1) $20.96, payable to the Commission as reimbursement for investigative expenses incurred; and (2) $250.00, payable to the Clerk for court costs. The expenses of the hearing officer will be submitted separately. With the acceptance of this agreement, the hearing officer appointed in this case is discharged with the Court's appreciation.

Bearcats face uphill climb to crack playoff puzzle

BY PAUL NEWBERRY
AP SPORTS COLUMNIST

You've got to feel for the Cincinnati Bearcats.

No matter what lofty heights they reach — and a perfect record was certainly within reach heading into Friday night's game against lowly South Florida — in all likelihood they will not be among four teams selected for the College Football Playoff.

What a pity.

Cincinnati is certainly worthy of more than a New Year's Day consolation prize for building the best non-Power Five program in the country, but the cash-cow playoff has always been reserved for those who make the rules and count the bucks.

Even if the Bearcats finished 13-0, won their conference title and could point to a resume that included an impressive road victory over Notre Dame, it probably wouldn't be enough.

"We've got to keep it going, keep the foot on the gas," quarterback Desmond Ridder said. "We can't let up."

The Bearcats headed to Tampa having lost only one game in the past two seasons — a last-second defeat to Georgia in the Peach Bowl.

The mighty Bulldogs are clearly the best team in the land this season, which leaves three other spots to be sorted out over the next few weeks.

The selection committee has already thrown a couple of bones to the Bearcats, placing them sixth in its first poll and fifth in the most recent survey — the highest rankings ever for a non-Power Five team.

Granted, Cincinnati didn't earn a whole lot of style points with last weekend's 28-20 victory over Tulsa (3-6), a game that came down to the Bearcats recovering a fumble in the end zone with less than a minute remaining.

But winning is really the only thing that matters. Luke Fickell's bunch has done that about as well as any team in the country, capturing their first nine games this year to improve to 40-6 since the beginning of the 2018 season.

"Nobody can live up to what other people want them to be," the coach said. "When it comes down to it, there is one objective: win a football game."

If there was ever a season to reward a team from the Group of Five schools that generally get the shaft on selection day, this appears to be it.

Three of the so-called power conferences are a mess:

• Oregon is the only team worthy of a look from the Pac-12, which long ago stopped being an elite football conference. And the Ducks have a major blemish on their record, losing to a Stanford team that has only two other wins in 2021. Still, the playoff committee has them ranked at No. 3 behind only Georgia and defending national champion Alabama.

• Oklahoma is 9-0 and on track to capture another Big 12 title, but the Sooner had more style and strength-of-schedule issues than Cincinnati. The combined record of the teams they have beaten is 31-51, with only two of those squads currently above. .500.

• With Clemson taking a major step backward, the Atlantic Coast Conference has no one even sniffing at playoff consideration. Wake Forest, ranked No. 12, is the highest ACC team in this week's CFP poll.

The remaining Power Five leagues are likely to contribute two or three teams to the playoff.
